HISTORICAL CATALOGUE

OF THE

Northampton First Church,

1661—1891.

BY REV. SOLOMON CLARK,

Author of Historicals, Antiquities, and Graduates, of Northampton, Mass.

ILLUSTRATED.

“Thy Way, O God, is in the Sanctuary.”—PSALM 77 : 13.

NORTHAMPTON, MASS. :
GAZETTE PRINTING COMPANY.
1891.

1241147

FIFTH MEETING HOUSE—ERECTED 1877-78.

INTRODUCTION.

The Work here introduced, covering a period of two hundred and thirty years, solicits the charitable judgment of an intelligent community.

It is not claimed to be perfect, though that has been the writer's steady purpose and endeavor. At the beginning, difficulties, arising from the absence of yearly dates in receiving Members, were to be met. For the first almost 100 years, the precise time when people united with the church is omitted. This was the order steadily pursued from 1661 till 1754. From this latter date, the beginning of Mr. Hooker's ministry, the admissions and the year go together.

Note another particular. But one interval appears when names of Members have been lost. This occurred near the close of Jonathan Edwards' pastorate. Alienation existed. The church went into a dark cloud. Few conversions occurred. Fewer still united with the church. The record of that interval, and of those admissions is missing. The only one of the kind during the long period covered by this history.

INTRODUCTION.

The Work, embracing over forty-two hundred and fifty names, has been one of constantly increasing interest on the writer's part. Gratitude is hereby expressed that he is permitted to see its completion. It is offered as a tribute of the author's esteem for his native place. May it serve as a reminder of the superior worth of those, who, so long ago, laid in this community the foundations of the first church.

Solomon Stoddard, third Clerk of Courts.

George W. Hubbard.

Tamesin Clark.

Silas M. Smith.

Two names of the last century may be added.

Thomas Allen, deceased 1754, gave between six and seven pounds to promote the spread of the gospel among the heathenish natives in the vicinity. His nephew, Joseph Allen, on King street, great-grandfather of Judge William, left a tract of land in Southampton, to the President of Dartmouth College, to be expended in propagating the gospel among the Indians. When these amounts were given, it was a day of small things in missionary movements.

CHAPTER XIX.

Churches aided in their Formation and Membership, during the last century and since, by the Northampton First Church.

Almost a score could be mentioned, indebted to this Mother in Israel. Begin with some near at home. Southampton, Westhampton, Easthampton, settled largely from the mother town. They were model communities and the churches in them. Count up the graduates, ministers, authors, teachers, professors, valuable men, they have sent out into the world, more than one hundred and twenty.

Lebanon, Ct., settled previously, stands high on the roll of educated communities. But that place received its first start from families connected with the Northampton First Church. The same respecting Durham, Coventry, Woodbury, of that state. One of the first ministers of Woodbury, Rev. Anthony Stoddard, was a Northampton boy. Settled in 1702, preached nearly sixty years, was Clerk of Probate forty years, acted as lawyer and physician, managed one of the largest farms in town, reared a family of eleven children, admitted 500 to the church.

It is proper to say that the intelligence of some Northampton families which settled in Amherst about 1750 and earlier, had something to do in bringing into existence that noble institution, Amherst College.

Recall the influence of the First Church in the early times of Northfield, Pittsfield, Skaneateles, N. Y., Princeton, Ill., Brecksville, O. The churches in those places were much indebted for their excellent beginning to families of the Northampton First Church.

Coming back to the Connecticut Valley, the Edwards Church, so efficient, far reaching in its influence for good, owns and acknowledges the First Church as Mother. Has not this been the feeling on the part of both toward each other from the first till now?

Will conclude by adducing the Florence Congregational Church. In aiding its early membership, did not the Northampton First Church perform an important part?

CHAPTER XX.

What Hath God Wrought?

Two hundred thirty years ago,
A faithful few, a little band,
Wishing to serve their God below,
And thus confess his guiding hand,

United all with willing mind
To form a church, a sacred band,
Rejoicing in a pastor kind,
To guide them to the better land.

The little ones were gathered in
By Cov'nant vows of parents dear,
And early taught to hate all sin,
As from these records doth appear.

First Mather came, a holy man;
And Stoddard next, of earnest mien,
And many souls took a firm stand,
Whose names within this book are seen.

Edwards, a wonder of logic rare;
His preaching, earnest, faithful, sound,
His books profound beyond compare,
Have spread his fame the world around.

Gifted Hooker in manhood's prime,
Well served his three and twenty years;
And Williams preached a longer time,
E'en six and forty busy years.

Tucker and Spencer, brief their stay,
Though much belov'd and cherished here,
Were call'd by God another way;
Grieving people they lov'd so dear.

Penny and Wiley, ten years more,
Both quite learn'd and doing good,
Their loss this ancient church deplored,
And sought from others gospel food.

Swift soon came to relieve their stress,
And tarried five good years or more;
Cleveland remained two years to bless,
And troubled hearts to peace restore.

Next beloved Dr. Eddy came,
The church was happy in her choice
Nine pleasant y ars did he remain,
Causing large numbers to rejoice.

Soon was he torn from their embrace;
In the midst of God's work he left;
Then Mr. Leavitt filled his place
Fourteen years. 'Twas again bereft.

Pastor Lathe then came to the fold,
With wisdom garnered from the past;
May numbers be by him enrolled,
Adorning his bright crown at last.
